Great results and a big success have been achieved by ACEM Medical Company (Division of ACEM SpA) during its participation at MEDICA 2010, which again has proven to be the most important Medical Trade Fair regarding new products, exhibitors and visitors (this year abt. 138.000 registered).

During the four days of fair, numerous qualified visitors have experienced and appreciated ACEM products, that are in the van on the market, known and appreciated all over the world.

The novelties presented in this edition have generated great interest: the Starled 1 Evo surgical lamp improved by its new I-SENSE® control panel together with its ceiling configuration and the new ABC System (AntiBacterial Coating) have once again proven the big commitment that ACEM Medical Company gives to the research and development of their own products in order to grant the best working conditions for doctors and surgeons.

It has also been very useful the match with big foreign companies specialized on the medical lighting sector which confirms the use of LED as avant-garde technology hence placing ACEM Medical Company as a leader in the sector.
